

Conspiracy

Jean B. Gerbier

Conspiracy

A love affair at work had very early taken shape. yet the light hidden for a time. the desire continued, to burn inside, until you found someone else. the initiator of this abandonment were your friends, among whom a traitor stole your heart from me.

work is a place to make a living, but not to frivolously making plot on dumping your admire.

Chorus

Conspiracy, I wanna give you a chance to make it up.
Conspiracy, don't you worry please surrender.
conspiracy, express the intimacy.
conspiracy, come on prove your loving to me.

No you will not resist this desire, that is burning inside of you. Please conquer me, so that I meet you half way. please leave this ineffective way of approaching me, let the truth in you prevail.
Let the Lord know you have not resist Haven grace.

work is a place to make a living, but not to
frivolously making plot on dumping your admire.
