Any Way

Jackson Scott

Setting out, what a child, my steps ahead of my mind
Not a doubt, 'til You knocked me off my paradigm
Simple me, only trying to see You in the stained glass
I walked right past the unexpected

Anyway You wanna show me
All Your glory
Anywhere You choose to speak
Tell Your story

In the low or lofty places
Strangers faces
Anywhere
Any way

Doubt that I would have found You there in Bethlehem
No surprise, You changed the world through fishermen
Good to know, You would go so far to finally get through That's just like You and so unlike me

Anyway You wanna show me
All Your glory
Anywhere You choose to speak
Tell Your story

In the low or lofty places
Strangers faces
Anywhere
Any way

In the alley, on the rooftop
At the end of a rocky road, You don't stop
On a mountain, in a rainstorm
In the eyes of a mother with her newborn

In the back pew, at the altar
At the well where You gave the woman water
In the chaos, in the holy
In the darkness, anywhere a heart beats

Anywhere a heart beats

Anyway You wanna show me
All Your glory
Anywhere You choose to speak
Tell Your story

In the low or lofty places
Strangers faces
Anywhere
Any way

Anyway You wanna show me
All Your glory
Anywhere You choose to speak
Tell Your story

In the low or lofty places
Strangers faces
Anywhere
Any way

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com
written by MINTER, KELLY MEREDITH/HARRINGTON, CONNIE RAE
Lyrics Â© Warner/Chappell Music, Inc., EMI Music Publishing

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/