

Running

Evermore

Too many words, too many lies

I can't quite see the truth

When I look into your eyes

I feel I could

And I know I should

Step away, turn around

Let my feet hit the ground

Running

Running

Running

Running

You don't need a broken heart

To know a heart can be broken

You just need to open your eyes

We don't need to be deceived

To know a lie can be spoken

We don't have to learn everything twice

I don't know, I really don't know

If this castle in the sand

Is strong enough to stand

Clouds come down

Clouds come down

I feel I could

And I know I should

Step away, turn around

Let my feet hit the ground

Running

Running

Running

Running

You don't need a broken heart

To know a heart can be broken

You just need to open your eyes

We don't need to be deceived

To know a lie can be spoken

We don't have to learn everything twice

Cos I know how it feels

All the pain is so real

Cos you sink and you drown

'Till your feet hit the ground

Running

Running

Running

Cos you don't need a broken heart

To know a heart can be broken

You just need to open your eyes

And we don't need a TV show

To show us which way to go

We just need to do what we know

Whoa
