

Sleep In Deep

Bel Canto

While the cold wind blows, the heroes return
Left are troubled souls, that nothing but yearn
 For a better day, for some rightfulness
 Will their wounds get healed?
Rest body and mind, let them sleep in peace
 Their minds demand a release
 From the dread they hold, oh
Do I need to see, what eyes can not bear?
Do I need to hear, that nobody cares?
 For the things I have done
 And the things I've learnt
 Are now scars in me
 Rest body and mind
 Let me sleep in deep
 And disembody the fear
 And the fright I hide
 But until then I will pray
 That I'll hold on to...
