

White Song

Triangle Sun

I hear your voice out side my door
This time you came too early, to drop your snowflakes on my floor.
When i let you in you will begin, reading these old white stories?
I've heard them, but i want some more
Winter your white dress looks so nice
I hear your white song day and night
The words of that song I know so well
You put my life under your spell
You throw your snowballs at my face
Showing your tricks and laughing, bringing me joy inside my tears
But when some day you'll fly away, living all nature crying,
I'm still gonna see you in my dreams
Winter your white dress looks so nice
I hear your white song day and night
The words of that song I know so well
You put my life under your spell
