Thinking About You

Puddle of Mudd

You're million miles away but I can still see your face
I can still taste your lips from the kiss yesterday
I heard you left the other day, took another trip to outer space
I will chase you around the worldI can still heal you, I can still feel you
I can still hear you calling my nameI've been thinking about you
I've been dreaming about you every night and everyday
I keep waiting on you, been praying for you
That maybe you'll come back again someday
Come back again somedayShould have been a piece of cake, but I guess it had to end this way
Why is everything such a waste?
I wanna keep holding on, holding on to what we got
But everything that we had is already goneI can still heal you, I can still feel you
I can still hear you calling my nameI've been thinking about you
I've been dreaming about you every night and everyday
I keep waiting on you, been praying for you
That maybe you'll come back again somedayI've walked around the world about a million times
Just to find you girl, can't get you out of my mind
And I'd cross a burning bridge in the nick of time
Just to save you girl, can't get you out of my mind
Can't get you out of mindI've been thinking about you
I've been dreaming about you every night and everyday
I keep waiting on you, been praying for you
That maybe you'll come back again somedayI've been thinking about you girl
I've been dreaming about you every night
I keep waiting on you, been praying for you
That maybe you'll come back again someday

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/