Puzzle Pieces

Alex Bugnon

trying to make sense of this puzzle but feeling like the pieces are scattered all around this room climbing the fence of my trouble falling down once again to try and get there soon oh but could I stand and wait for You instead of running from this black to find my blue oh and when will I just listen to the truth that the pieces of this pussle just don't fit without You trying to make sense but nothing doing as I scramble on my knees to let some light shine through over this fence, aah but peeking back through it just to see if I left anything that I could do without You though my vision lags behind Ihave found that I can find my completeness only in You, in You
