

Meet You In the Middle

Joan Osborne

Though we may fight most every night
I'll meet you in the middle some day
The heartaches thrive but the love survives
I'll meet you in the middle some day We've both been known to be reckless
To never let go of our pride
But honey I believe we've been careless
'Cause the damage just can't be denied Oh, before we start we're miles apart
And there's a million reasons why
But I wake to find you're still on my mind
It's stronger as the years go by I'd like to sit down with you darling
Show you everything in my heart
But emotions run high when I see your face
And I just don't know where to start Oh, oh, I'll meet you in the middle some day
Oh, oh, I'll meet you in the middle some day Hmm, if all for this just one more kiss
I'd travel any distance to find
Your eyes of coal, your secret soul
I swear that I could read your mind Honey you can call me crazy
To think that our affection could last
But I see us throw it all together
After all the storms have passed Oh, though we may fight most every night
I'll meet you in the middle some day
The heartaches thrive but the love survives
I'll meet you in the middle some day Oh, oh, I'll meet you in the middle some day
Oh, oh, I'll meet you in the middle some day, some day
