

Slippin

Quadron

I was demanding to be the, oh so strong
Truth be told, I only want myself to tag along
Following my shadow, loaded with guilt
See what I didn't know was that
Patching up only makes a quilt
Have too much pleasure from illusions of right
It seems I'd rather loose a friend then a fight
But I'm not young enough to know everything
See what I do know is my alter ego is up-coming

I'm slippin'

'Cause I can't get me off of this throne

I'm slippin'

It's too much of a comfort zone

I'm slippin'

'Cause I can't get me off this throne

I'm slippin'

'Cause I can't get me off of this throne

It's too much of a comfort zone
Use persuasion as my strongest approach
I preach my wisdom as a neat friendly poach
Respect you don't get, it's something you owe

If your can't do what I do

It's 'cause you reap what you sow

Taking my time sharing my week

Yeah, I am good at listening

When I hear myself speak

Once I swell attention tasted

Enough won't do

Every weekend I am wasted

I'm slippin'

Once I swell attention tasted

Enough want to

Every weekend I'm wasted

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>