

Good Enough

Bodyjar

You tell yourself that it's not good enough And you got plans to keep it underground You don't deserve it I understand it well But never make them last. It's like I said we make things happen fast It's all, I'm ten foot tall I watch them all revolve around me And there's no one to blame Here and gone in a day It's always the same Keep it sold if you want 'em to be there I wanted to say Now it's old now it's over repeated He tells the world that he's not good enough He knows he should be He knows it takes some time to underline It's making sense now Don't sell it short you'll make it harder now When all along it's just a dream and all I hear means nothing to me It's always the same Keep makin things seem right And there's no one to blame Keep it sold if you want 'em to be there I wanted to say Here and gone in a day Now it's old now it's over repeated I've tried everything today (x4) I've tried everything
