Oceans

Morning Runner

Catch your breath,
Paddle to the shore,
Let the sun set,
She won't see him no more,
Asleep in the archways,
With wise men and tramps,
Thinking about letters, lights and lamps.If you turn back the clocks,
You'll fall asleep in the oceans.Catch your breath,
Paddle to the shore,
Let the sun set,
She won't see him no more,
Asleep in the archways,
With wise men and tramps,
Thinking about letters, lights and lamps.
And turn back the clocks,
Before this sleep in the oceans.But it's gone just for a minute,
And I was away just for a minute,
The stars exploded,
Man you should've seen it.

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/