It's All a Lie

Keren Ann

The lips of time, they kiss again
When I walk alone into the night
They know my voice, they know my name
My need for love, my fear of heightsSo I keep my wit, my running game
My shoulders straight, chin up high

But it's all a lie

It's all a lie, it's all a lieAnd I forget how the time, it flies

When my fingers crossed, I hope in vain

That you'll be home with sleepy eyes

To fix it all, cause you know my painAnd I forget how the time, it flies

When the day is long, and it keeps me dry

Cause it's all a lie

It's all a lie, it's all a lieThere's no perfect way to clear the mess

We both have a past in a silver frame

See my heart, it died a slow weary death

In the tainted arms of another manYou and I we're no different

Than the rest of the world when the morning rings

Everyone wants a piece of the love of God

Everyone sings, everyone singsI know you can tell that I can't help myself

Can't help myself

Cause it's all a lie

It's all a lie, it's all a lie, it's all a lie, it's all a lie, it's all a lieThe lips of time, they kiss again
When I walk alone into the night

They know my voice, they know my name

My need for love, my fear of heightsBut seen I'm not different than the rest of the world

When the morning rings

I just want a piece of the love of God
