

Blame It On The Weather

Arthur Walwin

They say that letting go of what you love the most will be the best choice in the end.
So come a little closer, tell me you're a wreck and this is moving way too fast for you. Alas, it's the same damn story that I've heard a half a dozen times by a half a dozen girls.

Well this is not about the ending and this is not about your words. This is getting over anything to do with you.
And I can blame it on the weather or I can blame it on your pills, but the fact is we were never meant to ever last.
I wrote you off the very second we broke up cause I could never go through this again with you cause baby you're a God damn mess just like you said you were; but I ignored it in spite of your eyes.

Well this is not about the ending and this is not about your words. This is getting over anything to do with you.
And I can blame it on the weather or I can blame it on your pills, but the fact is we were never meant to ever last.

Can I consider this my lesson in romantics? But would it be so bad if I were there for you?
Well this is not about the ending and this is not about your words. This is getting over anything to do with you.
And I can blame it on the weather or I can blame it on your pills, but the fact is we were never meant to ever last.
And you went and tore this anniversary in half oh no, but I won't live another second in the past.
