

Kala (feat. Elizabeth Fraser)

Yann Tiersen

Do you recognize me
Here on this sleeper train
And do you feel the pain Growing into the night, Mary
And I can feel the taste
Of your birthday cake
Remember how it was
To hold you into my arms, Mary. It wasn't there
The summer lights around I wasn't there
His hand upon my knees
And were gone
Across the sunny streets And were gone
The day you died, Mary
And we go faster now
Together through the fields
Here on this sleeper train
And I can touch your face, Mary. The precious things we've done
Hidden under my skin
I let you sleep a while
I let you sleep
A while, Mary. It was there
The summer lights around
I was there
His hand upon my knees
And were gone
Across the sunny streets. And were gone
The day you died, Mary

Songwriters

TIERSEN/FRASER Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC, Universal Music Publishing Group Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>