

Where Is A Woman To Go?

Dusty Springfield

Do da, do da, do da, do da day
Ahh, do da, do da, do da, do da day
Maybe he was wrong, maybe I wasn't right
Whatever the reason, I'm on my own tonight
He's gone his way and I've gone mine
Well, I bet you hear that story all the time
Well, sometimes your friends ain't always available
To pick you up when you're feelin' down, down, down, oh
My daddy would die if he knew his baby
Was seekin' refuge in a little ol' bar across town
So tell me where is a woman to go when she's feelin' low
And all she wants to do is feel a little better?
Tell me where is a woman to go when she's feelin' low
And all she wants to do is feel a little better?
Hey, bartender, honey, give me change for a ten-dollar bill
Bring it back as a stack of quarters, if you will
'Cause I'm gonna play every song on your jukebox that makes me cry
Gonna find out how many tears ten dollars can buy, oh
Gonna find out how many tears ten dollars can buy
Tell me where is a woman to go when she's feelin' low
And all she wants to do is feel a little better?
Tell me where is a woman to go when she's feelin' low
And all she wants to do is feel a little better?
Tell me where is a woman to go when she's feelin' low
And all she wants to do is feel a little better?
Tell me where is a woman to go when she's feelin' low
And all she wants to do is feel a little better?
Do da, do da, do da, do da day
Do da, do da, do da, do da day
I said do da, do da, do da, do da day
