Take You Home

Scars On 45

I don't know which way the river bends but i'll follow until the bitter end across that ocean, bent and broken just to find you my friend

Sometimes all the wheels can just fall right off
The price is to high to afford the cost
But theirs no need to feel like all is lost

I'll take you home
Right through the storm to your front door
You're not alone you will never have to fear cause
I will always be right here with you (you, you)
I will always be right here with you

You can try To erase me from the troubled mind but I won't leave, i'll be right by your side every time you try to say goodbye to me

Sometimes all the wheels can just fall right off Sometimes everything you've got is not enough
but theirs no need to feel like all is lost

I'll take you home
Right through the storm to your front door
You're not alone you will never have to fear cause
I will always be right here with you (you, you)
I will always be right here with you

Sometimes all the wheels can just fall right off its hard to get it going when the going gets tough
But theirs no need to feel like all is lost

I'll take you home
Right through the storm to your front door

I'll take you home
Right through the storm to your front door

You're not alone you will never have to fear cause
I will always be right here with you (you, you)
I will always be right here with you (you, you)
I will always be right here with you

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/