

You Wonder Why You Still Wonder Why

Lingua

You wonder why you, still wonder why you
The will to fit in is your number one
You lay down without love, you lay down without trust
With hope for someone to see you You've always been there for them
But none of them have been there for you
You've always been there for them
But none of them have seem to noticed You wonder why you, still wonder why you
Search for a smile in depressing rooms
You lay down without love, you lay down without clothes
In hope for someone to kill you
You've always been there for them
But none of them have been there for you
You've always been there for them
But none of them have seem to noticed x3 You've always been there for them
But none of them have been there for you
You've always been there for them
And try to calm them down You've always been there for them
But none of them have been there for you
You've always been there for them
But none of them have ever felt pain To get by and have someone
You've always been there for them
But none of them have been there for you
You've always been there for them
But none of them have seem to noticed To get by and have someone
