

Desperate Songs

Wheat

I know I'm a little erratic
And sometimes my chickens are chasing my rabbits
Do you think you can stand it?
Do I have the right to stand here and demand it?
And just like you the paranoia keeps me up
At night so late but
If you believe in desperate songs
I promise that one day, I'll learn how to write them
And then you and me can be free
As long as we learn all our desperate songs
Well, I know I'm a little bit spastic
When I know these castles with paper and plastic
You don't look like you can stand it
Yeah, I have the right to stand here and demand it
And just like you the softest earthquakes shake me out

Of bed at midnight
And if you believe in desperate songs
I promise that one day I'll learn how to write them
And then you and me can be free
As long as we learn all our desperate songs
Do you remember the panic
That I was felt when the small was gigantic
And just like you the heavy metal keeps me up
At night so late but
If you believe in desperate songs
I promise that one day I'll learn how to write them
And then you and me can be free
As long as we learn all our desperate songs
