Everything is Broken

3. Bob Dylan

Everyday is just another crazy anyway
I think I'm winning when you walk away
With all your trophies and your accolades
From the beginning, darling
I was just your token, token, token
Everything is broken, broken, broken
I was just your token, token, token
Everything is broken, broken, broken
Travesty, you're at the top of your academy
Don't get too used to looking down on me
Soon you'll be calling me your majesty
From the beginning, darling
I was just your token, token, token
Everything is broken, broken, broken
I was just your token, token, token
Everything is broken, broken, broken
Easy now, I tell you easy now
Before you say something that you don't mean to say
Easy now, she tell me easy now
Before I lose something, I'll never find again
Yeah, that's what she want me believing
See me alone, looks can be deceiving
One girl coming in, two or three leaving
Steaming, Willy Demon, they're screaming
Now that, that they all love him
In the Midwest so they girls M Dub him
Met them way back when I posed for the Kodak
Tell me, how does it feel unreal, real?
I was just your token, token, token
Everything is broken, broken, broken
I was just your token, token, token
Everything is broken
Gonna take you for a ride
I was just your token, token, token
Everything is broken, broken, broken
I was just your token, token, token
Everything is broken, broken
Gonna take you for a ride
Gonna take you for a ride

Gonna take you for a ride
Take you for a ride

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/