

Keep Watchin' the Skies

The Dickies

was always lonely just a face in the crowd never thinking aloud
i was always silently hoping that things would change nobody ever told me about the missing time i was hoping to find all the pieces of reality i could rearrange and so i keep watching the skies looking for somebody who can feel my pain yeah yeah

i'm watching the skies
is it a bird, or is it a plane if this is all sounding a little insane you know why so tell my why the confusion about the places i've been the circuitry in my skin is always sending me messages that i can't understand they offer no solution about just who they are could it be the marklar got me willed from a far away time and another land

and so i keep watching the skies
looking for somebody who can feel my pain
yeah yeah
i'm watching the skies
is it a bird, or is it a plane
if this is all sounding a little insane you know why i'm gonna wait til the sun sets on britannia britannia roswelian sunsets

on britannia britannia
my country tisofthe don't alienate me

and so i keep watching the skies
looking for somebody who can feel my pain
yeah yeah
i'm watching the skies
is it a bird, or is it a plane
if this is all sounding a little insane you know why

i'm looking for a world or a boat or a plane
if this is all sounding a little insane you know why tell me

---

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com written by STAN SOBEL, LEONARD PHILLIPS Lyrics Â© KOHAW MUSIC

Lyrics provided by <https://damnllyrics.com/>