

The Crooked Road

Lou Reid & Carolina

The Crooked Road by Lou Reid & Carolina:

I-81 runs from Roanoke to Bristol

150 miles in 2 hours flat

But if you're not in a hurry, there's another way to get there and around every bend you'll hear an echo from the past

The Crooked Road remembers all the songs that you've forgotten

It takes you back in time just like a long, lost friend

The Crooked Road will slow you down, so what you've lost can now be found

The Crooked Road will take you home again

Take the time to wander the hilltops and the hollers

Find a little country store where all the local pickers go

And close your eyes and listen, and you're back in Grandma's kitchen

With Wildwood Flower playing on the radio

The Crooked Road remembers all the songs that you've forgotten

It takes you back in time just like a long, lost friend

The Crooked Road will slow you down, so what you've lost can now be found

The Crooked Road will take you home again

Sometimes the crooked road is the straightest way to take you home

Front porch swinging, hound-dog napping, distant whistle of the passing train, honeysuckle on the evening breeze, slipping little something in the lemonade

The Crooked Road remembers all the songs that you've forgotten

It takes you back in time just like a long, lost friend

The Crooked Road will slow you down, so what you've lost can now be found

The Crooked Road will take you home again

Yeah The Crooked Road will take you home again
