Jesus Died In Las Vegas

Spiritual Front

Do you think you'd love him all the same?
Even if he'd lose everything
Faith too you gave your blood
And the rest of that ridiculous crown of allYour rags for just one dollar
You will ask men to follow you
And serve you to leave their lands
And their fathers who will love youBut cheaters and whores
Maybe they will follow you at the same
But they will wait for a reward
Richer than your wordJesus died in Las Vegas
And here the lights have that
Have the taste of His blood, pain and regretJesus died in Las Vegas
And He died with the arrogance
Of who feels loved
Feels loved and betrayedIn a dim motel, you betrayed your friends
And married a beautiful for few dollars
A cigar one day wedding three nails
Are enough to be part of historyIf one accepts it an one believes in it
Someone will follow him
And abandon flags and kings
With sandals or a CadillacYou will have his place
But they will forget you
And you don't know
How easy is to substitute a godJesus died in Las Vegas
And here the lights have that
Have the taste of His blood, pain and regretJesus died in Las Vegas
And He died with the arrogance
Of who feels loved
Feels loved and betrayedNothing is more contagious than sin
Nothing is more contagious than sin
Nothing is more contagious than sin
