Midnight Crawls Out

Elf Power

Well I rode far away on my dark black wave
Nothing was the same when I woke up
And I rode wrote out these words as my mind circled on Sitting in my bright little corner
Midnight crawls out one more time
I'm hiding out as the shadows climb
Early in the morning I listened to the sound
Of people walking up and down the street
I hear a voice that sound just like a girl I used to know
She rode a horse and lived in a hotel room
Midnight crawls out one more time
Come to the window and tap on the screen
I'll climb out and walk in the rain
The shallow water that lap at our feet
Rise up a little every day
And then late in the night as I'm drifting off to sleep
I picture you there on the big screen
You were riding on a train through the desert at night
Leaning on your daddy's shoulder
Midnight crawls out one more time
I'm hiding out as the shadows climb
