Questions and Answers

John MacArthur

I'm searching for answers, I will never see
Is there a reason why our children bleed?
So much to offer then you had to leave
These silent nights are deafening
Where are words that comfort?
When you try to find, try to find where to find it
Forever you'll be with us
I'll never say goodbye, say goodbye, say goodbye
If lighting a candle means calling on memories
I'd burn down the forest just to hear you speak
Some days are better and others I'm on my knees
Made you listen to grace with speed
Where are words that comfort?
When you try to find, try to find where to find it
Forever you'll be with us

I'll never say goodbye, say goodbye, say goodbye
So many questions never leave
And where are the answers that we seek?
Why do our children bleed?
Our questions aren't answered again
Our questions aren't answered again, oh yeah, yeah, yeah
If lighting a candle means calling on memories
I'd burn down the forest just to hear you speak
Where are words that comfort?
When you try to find, try to find where to find it
Forever you'll be with us
I'll never say goodbye, say goodbye, say goodbye
Never say goodbye, say goodbye, say goodbye
