

How Can I Be Sure Of You

Harry Nilsson

The other day a friend of mine said
He said, the sun's not really yellow
He said, the sun is really red I said, my friend, what do you mean?
You read that in some magazine?
Next thing you'll say the earth's not green How can I be sure of you?
When you know the world's always changing
Rearranging, always changing, changing I said, my friend, how do you do
And what you're saying isn't true
The next thing you'll say the earth is blue He said, my friend, you're in a dream
And things are never what they seem
Oh, things are never what they seem How can I be sure anymore?
When the world's always changing
Rearranging, changing
