Beyond

The Birthday Massacre

Out here at the edge of town I saw her
Alone on the water
I watched from the ridge as the trains passed under My eyes full of wonderHere I can see
Lakes of fire
As she called to meAnd I could see
Beyond the ordinary
Lost to me
in every fading memoryHere under the bridge her eyes looked younger
An absence of color
The sound of her voice lost in thunder
My heart full of hungerHere I can see
Lakes of fire
As she whispered to meAnd I could see
Beyond the ordinary
Lost to me
In every fading memoryOut into the dark I stared
Out here at the edge of the world
I made a promise to never grow up and Forget all the days here when I was so youngAnd I could see
Beyond the ordinary
Lost to meAnd I could see
Beyond the ordinary
Lost to me
In every fading memory
