

Love Don't Go

The Family Crest

So you lost your head inside your heart
And the weighty world it tore you apart
And you've all but given up
On the stone you call a heart, you're singing out
Sing it out Oh, the love you've placed inside my hands
Oh, the fervor that your heart demands
Well we went off with a spark
But you were left out in the dark, singing out
Oh, sing it out Oh, love, you wanna step outside
Find a place to run and hide
It isn't that it's tough
It's just that I don't love you enough So take your shaking bones
And step out on your own
The winter never stops Oh, love, you wanna step outside
Find a place to run and hide
It isn't that it's tough
Oh, baby love, it's just that I don't love you enough
So take your shaking bones and go And there's nothing left inside my heart
No there's nothing left for you
Oh, there's nothing left inside my broken heart You say yes, and I say no
Love don't stop, oh love don't go
Love don't go
