It Dies Today

Ignite the funeral pyre and
Let's close the casket, lid on everything
On this institution and on every memory
Burn it all in effigy, lets watch it burnFell into the depths of a broken heart again
And I'll die alone, I get lost in your eyes
And I can't help but feel like
I'll never find love there againDressed in white you mourned nothing
As you led the precession on with a smile
There was no eulogy given for no kind words
Could be conjured up this timeNo not a single word or praise could escape
From your lips on that day
There was no more need to conjure up things
That made things seem okayFell into the depths of a broken heart again
And I'll die alone, I get lost in your eyes
And I can't help but feel like
I'll never find love there againAs you walk on, ash falls like snow
Can you express regret?
Or just let a smile show?
Please just walk on
Don't respond, I already knowFell into the depths of a broken heart again
And I'll die alone, I get lost in your eyes
And I can't help but feel like
I'll never find love there, I'll never find love there
I'll never find love there again
