

Candle In Hand

Vonrenzo

You taught me of an emptiness that's still within
And as a moon prayed silent pressed upon your skin
And as I locked the door that I had closed in my mind
And it was in your smile, I turned awry into the other side...
Just don't tell me when it's too late
I do not wish to awake without the part you take...
No, you were not another I could just push away
And I lay still upon you, seeking nothing to say
And as your lips close in quiet knowing all that I have guessed
That if I stopped falling, I would have nothing to catch...
Just don't tell me when it's too late
I do not wish to awake without the part you take...
I want to be of you again
I want to be of you
I want to be of you again
Wondering in your wonder...
