I Think I Need You

The Lodger

I'm feeling a little homesick blues
And it's something that I cannot explain without blowing the fuse
I'm feeling a little tired and low
And it's something that I cannot explain since a long time agoDon't tell me it's not real
And don't go mocking the way I feel
It's so clear and so true
But I'm leaving it up to you
I wrote it in the skies
Until this day I'll wear your disguise
It's so clear and so pure
I think I need you but I can't be sure
I can't be sureI'm leaving on the first flight home
'Cause it's something that I cannot explain from the end of the phoneDon't tell me it's not real
And don't go mocking the way I feel
It's so clear and so true
But I'm leaving it up to you
I wrote it in the skies
Until this day I'll wear your disguise
It's so clear and so pure
I think I need you but I can't be sureA million reasons
There are fountain of ways
A hundred letters in seven days
Minutes and seconds
And I'll be awayDon't tell me it's not real
And don't go mocking the way I feel
I've fastened myself to you
I'm sticking to you like glue
I wrote it in the book
Why don't you give me a second look
But I'm still feel insecure
I think I need you but I can't be sure
I can't be sure
I can't be sure
I can't be sure
