

Curious Time Machine

Echo Orbiter

Skeletons swim from the closet

Bottle rocket into the Atmosphere is clear from Seventeen miles from sky to
Sea and seeing is the only sense
Left to abuse while cruising
Swiftly creating sonic booms
You catch in a butterfly net
Attached to the umbrella
Designed for a soft landing

Ride that rainbow road to mother
Singing bedtime songs to assure the sweetest dreams

Nostalgic journey and youthful dreams

Steam engine ride along the Countryside and sight the
Old orchards that invited
Boys to hide and seek
And one of those boys was me
And still to this day I've not been found
The smell of the ground is blended
Into my pheromones and
I want to go back home

Ride that rainbow road to another
Childhood place that I miss that reminds me of the things that I forgot

Lyrics submitted by Cab.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>