Film Burn

Yppah

memories burn on the black and white horizon of your knowledge of what was never saidyouve had enough of the road that was laid along beside you like a lover meant for another bedand so you left in the morning and all thats left behind you are the fading frames that youve got insteadwhen youve had too much and the weight of the expected has got you feeling introspective can I give you the perspective that you needyouve got a hazy head but happy knees and despite your inhibition youll take it to the streets watching every face that you seeand when youve had too much well imagine a vacation take us to the place that satiates elation give us all the space that we needI know you just wanna see me breathe but you better just hold on and come back to mecuz Ill take you to the place where you come down and just react to what youre about to seeIll take you to the place where you
to what youre about to seeyouve had enough too much and all you have collected is heavy with the taste of ambition misdirected bitter bout the pace that you keepand so you left in the morning
that youve got instead
