Fullness Found

Todd Agnew

Ive been walking around this world for some time
And Ive found there are quite a few things to see
Physical and emotional and intellectual stimulations
But at the core I found them empty, emptyIve been trying so many things to fill me
But every one left me wanting
And every answer left me with more questions
And every road ended empty, emptyFor every emptiness, a fullness may be found
For every lie theres something true
For this broken cup thats quickly leaking water
There is a fullness found in You, found in YouIve been working hard at what I thought was useful
But my hands are so small next to Yours
Ive been trying to learn all that I thought would make me wise
But I just found vanity and lies
Until You, You opened my eyes and I sawThat for every emptiness, a fullness may be found
For every lie theres something true
And for this broken cup thats quickly leaking water
There's a fullness found in You, found in YouAnd I thought everything was meaningless
But now Ive found thats not true
And who am I to doubt the good in things
When all goodness comes from You, from You, my GodFor every emptiness, a fullness may be found
For every lie theres something true
And for this broken cup thats quickly leaking water
There is a fullness found in You, found in YouThe fullness found in You
Found in You
