

Wake Up Rise Up

Peyoti for President

Now I don't wanna shit, but there's something goin' down
Just 20 years from now the sun & the moon and the clouds
Could be different from today
Not too pleasant they say

The man in the suit with the starched buttoned collar is sweating to death but we're too hot to bother
We go so fast that the world will never catch us

At least that's what we'd like

But we, scorch the sky with our careless lives
Look at the people that we vote to represent us the mess that they now present us with

Oh I oh I, it makes me want to cry
Wake Up, Rise Up

Listen to your conscience

21st Century up-rising is so overdue

And it's down to me and you

It's your life their lies you choose

What you're gonna do

Or just sit back, relax, turn on the TV
It's their to control us

To sedate manipulate and console us

& just in case you didn't know

I thought I'd come and tell you so cause

We the People, break the system,

Just in case you thought that they were listening forget...

They're too busy beatin' each other

You're mother, you're father you're sister, you're brother..
