

Ask A Woman Who Knows

Quincy Jones

He stays out every night
And leaves me all alone
He never tells me where he goes I'm not the only lonely one
Just ask a woman who knows We used to share our troubles
And the good times too
Now I'm left with all the woes I'm not the only sorry one
Just ask a woman who knows The days are long
Oh, but the nights are longer
I've got the lonesomest blues You'd know my only consolation
Is I ain't got nothing more to lose So there you have the story
Of a love gone wrong
That used to blossom like a rose Oh, I'm not the only broken heart
Just ask a woman who knows Well my only consolation
Is that I got nothing more to lose So there you have the story
Of a love gone wrong
That used to blossom like a rose But I'm not the only broken heart
Just ask a woman and I'm a woman
Just ask a woman who knows Oh yeah, ask a woman, ask a woman
And I'm a woman who knows
