

Without Judgement

Death

Guilty until proven innocent

We condemn your soul and fate

Never mind the possibilities

Too busy for logic or to calculateTake part in a diminishing breed

Where complex turns to simplicity

When pain is acknowledged

Frivolous calculations will be abolishedWithout judgment what would we do?

We would be forced to look

At ourselves emerged in lost time

Assuming what may be, without judgment

Perception would increase a million timesDistracted by the imagination

That experiments with ease

If you could taste it, it might be addictive

Where life will crush those who defyTake part in a diminishing breed

Where complex turns to simplicity

When pain is acknowledged

Frivolous calculations will be abolishedWithout judgment what would we do?

We would be forced to look

At ourselves emerged in lost time

Assuming what may be, without judgment

Perception would increase a million times
