

Bassem Sabry

of Montreal

Look at our electric guitars
And, if not for the good people weeping
All we'd hear is sounds of our horses dying
But I'm not 'bout to start crying about it It must be fairly normal
To devolve into cycloptic brooding
As the genocidal massacres you rubbed
Over some perceived sedition Insecurities of men messing everything up again (Oh, a show wrote in sparrow in the gales, only) I'll never follow no kind of master's voice
The mutinous tramp of cold voltage crucifixion is my conduit I just watched my hero fail
Now I'm in a dark and violent funk
Every leader is a cellophane punk
If you hear me say "yeah!" (Yeah!)
"Yeah!" (Yeah!) "Yeah!" (Yeah!) "Yeah!" (Yeah!) There must be a softer vision that you could kick to
In this aureate gloom, I assume Both sides are embarrassingly backwards in their thinking Bearing no one to side with, none I want to defend (So the mute-minded search, silly in love) People disappear on the wrong side of this revolution
When they resurface, there's a black hole in their skull
People disappear on the wrong side of this revolution
When they'll return, all their childhood memories are dead I'll never follow no kind of master's voice
The mutinous tramp of cold vulture crucifixion is my conduit I just watched my hero fail
Now I'm in a dark and violent funk
Every leader is a cellophane punk
If you hear me say "yeah!" (Yeah!)
"Yeah!" (Yeah!) "Yeah!" (Yeah!) "Yeah!" (Yeah!) I'll never follow no kind of master's voice
The mutinous tramp of cold voltage crucifixion is my conduit I just watched my hero fail
Now I'm in a dark and violent funk
Every leader is a cellophane punk
If you hear me say "yeah!" (Yeah!)
"Yeah!" (Yeah!) "Yeah!" (Yeah!) "Yeah!" (Yeah!) Yeah! I believe in witches
I believe in you
I believe in witches
I believe in you, you, you, you, you, you, you, you I believe in witches
I believe in you
I believe in witches
I believe in you, you, you, you, you, you, you, you

Lyrics provided by <https://damnyrics.com/>