Generation Debt

Belvedere

They came along not to lead
To suck the will of our men, but you know we'll succeed
But the guilt in us won't kill this beast
Our generation it longs to say
Please fix our past and you just might, might find your wayOh what have we done?
Excuses won't help us son
Flushed out all that's good on earth
It's your time for you to search
For answers, a hay-stacked needle
Bring down a selfish people
Generations thrived on lust
Be best, son, for all of us
We mustered all, but forget
And selfishly gorged on escapism yet
All the baseless facts, and the whisper game
But we bet it all on the devils name
But realize we're all guilty, all here to blameOne taste, a white lie
But don't turn away 'cause I'm telling you why
Don't think I'm to blame
Contributed years to this pitiful game
Oil wars and rogue states
There's sense to it all, but our vision abates
Spread peace, they'll unwind please quest for this now, we don't have any time.
Oh what have we done?
Excuses won't help us son
Flushed out all that's good on earth
It's your time for you to search
For answers, a hay-stacked needle
Bring down a selfish people
Generations thrived on lust
Be best, son, for all of us
