Come Back

Lesley Roy

He tried calling the number I gave him
The tide covered him up, I can't save him
Hell had opened, he's halfway to hell and backThe clouds, the darkness came right before him
The world threw him with some courses and warnings
Hell had opened, he's halfway to hellNow that you sleep you won't come back to meCome back, come back, you left us all alone
Secrets, you kept them, now you're laying in the stone
No, you'll never come homeYour pain, it carried your mind somewhere else
And that day nobody came to your help
Now I'm sorry the angels weren't thereNow that you sleep you won't come back to meCome back, come back, you left us all alone
Secrets, you kept them, now you're laying in the stone
No, you'll never come home[Incomprehensible] shine like the sun
We will never forget you
You pass on, leave us aloneCome back, come back, you've left us here alone
Secrets, you've kept them, now you're laying in the stone
Come back, come back, you left all alone
Secrets, you kept them, now you're laying in the stoneCome back, come back, you left us all alone
Secrets, you kept them, now you're laying in the stone
And you'll never come home, no, you'll never come home
