

Liberty Bell

Paul Howard

No brainwaves or activity while the craft is in the air It's getting dark, it's getting light we are sitting in a chairWe have fastened every belt we cannot float out of our seats It's so enormously frightening When our tail reaches superheatAnother timezone a change of season
it is turning dark again We're getting ready for yet another orbit around our planetIt is time for the galactic cruise
To come to an end
One last view on the world and the time we have spend
