

Can't Say How Much I Love You

Demis Roussos

I know the secrets of the wind and the song that bluebird sings and why seasons never stay I know what makes the morning rise and the taste of paradise but there is one thing I can't say Ohhh I can't say how much I love you say how much I need you I could never find the words to say I really really want you and you are all my eyes can see Ohhh I can't say how much I love you say how much I need you every word you say is filled with sunshine when you say you love me and you'll always stand by me And now, at last I realize that my dreams were in disguise and that nothing was sincere. You came to paint the rainbow line and to make each moment rhyme only shades of tenderness Ohhh I can't say how much I love you how much I need you each and every word you say is filled with sunshine when you say you love me and you will always stand by me. ohh I can't say....
