Travelin' Blues

Loggins & Messina

Advisory - the following lyrics contain explicit language:

If you ever get the travelin' blues
And you need a place to rest your shoes
There's someone here to welcome the new
I'd be so happy to know that you're aliveIf knowin' this should make you feel low
And you feel the need for someone to know
I love to hear your welcomed hello
I'd be so happy to know that you're aliveThere's so many sights, those bright city lights
Will help you try and find your way
It's a big, big world and you're a big, big girl
So hurry up and don't be lateBut if you ever want to come home
There's no need in you bein' alone
All you've got to do is phone
I'd be so happy to know that you're aliveThere's so many sights, those bright city lights
Will help you try and find your way
It's a big, big world and you're a big, big girl
So hurry up and don't be lateBut if you ever want to come home
There's no need in you bein' alone
All you've got to do is phone
I'd be so happy to know that you're aliveI'd be so happy to know that you're alive
So happy to know that you're alive

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/