Polluted Beauty

Twiddle

The leaves are bursting brightly slowly turning into flame soon they'll lose their strength shrivel up and turn to gray the cold takes over little crystals from the sky a wondrous white blanket covers all throughout the night in the morning it's the sun sprinklin' glitter all around the wind blows softly like a lullabye through town and all this has happened while your mind's preoccupied it's the ugly way of man that keeps us down and makes us blind woh oh oh oh oh oh oh ooooh From a little tiny ant to the birds up in the sky
We could swim with the dolphins we could climb a mountainside
We could hunt with the lions Lay beneath the stars at night Procreating our existence underneath the moonlight
woh oh oh oh oh oh oh ooooh
woh oh oh oh oh oh oh ooooh
One great tear splashes down upon the ground Love paints and magic created life to swim around The sun burned hotter as the earth grew taller
There was beauty overwhelming all that life had to offer
They crawled above the sky and they crawled above the earth Life was blooming sweetly as the world was giving birth the necessities of life were pure and simple in their ways To sustain and exist, things would love to live each day-ay-ay
woh oh oh oh oh oh oh ooooh From a little tiny ant to the birds up in the sky
We could swim with the dolphins we could climb a mountainside
We could hunt with the lions Lay beneath the stars at night
We've been polluting all the beauty that surrounds our daily lives
Technology is killing me It's bleeding me dry
Communication has no patience Radiating inside
Our prophecy's no longer free one great eye in the sky
The sun beams down from the moon like a nightlight shattering the gloom
The sun starts warming up the ground like a warm breath of light beamin' down
The rain starts nourishing the seeds as the sun helps it grow up into trees
The trees give life to all who need so everything on earth can live and breathe
woh oh oh oh oh oh oh ooooh woh oh oh oh oh oh oh ooooh You wake up to the shrieks of the angry cars outside Everybody's way to busy living in this modern life Always texting driving tweeting into cyber overdrive
It's a hi-def fog blurrin' out the earth's pride We're the lazy generation our question's answered with a click to seek out knowledge when it's all at your fingertips

If we just got back to basics put one seed into the earth
We could heal this epidemic save the world before it's cursed
woh oh oh oh oh oh oh ooooh From a little tiny ant to the birds up in the sky
We could swim with the dolphins we could climb a mountainside
We could hunt with the lions Lay beneath the stars at night
Procreating our existence underneath the moonlight
We've been polluting all the beauty that surrounds our daily lives
Technology is killing me It's bleeding me dry
Communication has no patience Radiating inside
Our prophesy's no longer free one great eye in the sky
Stop staring at the screens Stop countin' on machines
Start livin' in the world that your eyes were meant to see
We've been polluting our own beauty forgettin' what we shouldn't
We need to keep our bodies happy keep our souls from feelin' empty
The rises in the east and sets in the west
The stars are out at night and the moon it likes the rest
All this is common knowledge which soon will be forgot Unless we take a second to let the beauty blossom wooh woh ooh ooh
yeh let that beauty blossom
woh ooh oh
yeh let that beauty blossom
woh ooh oh
woh ooh oh yeh From a little tiny ant to the birds up in the sky
We could swim with the dolphins we could climb a mountainside
We could hunt with the lions Lay beneath the stars at night
Procreating our existence underneath the moonlight
We've been polluting all the beauty that surrounds our daily lives
Technology is killing me It's bleeding me dry
Communication has no patience Radiating inside
Our prophesy's no longer free one great eye in the sky
Stop staring at the screens Stop countin' on machines
Start livin' in the world that your eyes were meant to see
We've been polluting our own beauty forgettin' what we shouldn't
We need to keep our bodies happy keep our souls from feelin' empty
The sun sets in the east and rises in the west
The stars are out at night and the moon it likes the rest
All this is common knowledge which soon will be forgot Unless we take a second to let the beauty to blossom
wooh woh ooh ooh
yeh let that beauty blossom
woh ooh oh
yeh let that beauty blossom
woh ooh oh

woh ooh oh yeh
