

Half-Lit

Single Mothers

That night I fell into the pharmacy
I thought I was in a lucid dream
So I burned it down
Anything that you could ever need
I'll just seccvret one about
And they'll give it to meJumped over the counter
A phone rang and I yelled, "Don't you fuckin' answer!"
Your hair was all matted
You looked so fantastic
And you're flippin' through a baby book
So romanticWith all the drugs you could imagine
Think of all the parties we could make happen
Turns out these clouds were hangin' on strings
So lets get high and cut 'em down
and watch 'em fall on everthing
Listen, there's nothin' that I can't do
I tried and I just can't loseSo smart, so sharp, so serrated
Turn your attention into amazement
On your couch we undo each other's buttons
Catching breath and turning stomachsWith all the drugs you could imagine
Think of all the parties we could make happenI was blacked out in the basement
Like a soft pillow on hard pavement
Hummin' a slow song
Of stray dogs and car alarms
Now I'm half-lit, knockin' on you door
Could've sworn I've been here beforeWhat'll you do now?
They've cut me off
Are you better off?
Only time will tellWhat'll you do now?
They've cut me off
Are you better off?
Only time will tellI'm half-lit
Connected
A madmad
I'm stagnant

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnyrics.com/>