You'd Like to Admit It

Rodriguez

You were the girl that laughed when I tried
You were the one that smiled when I sighed
You didn't like my style or my songs
Now tables-turn and ya find you were wrongSo when, I, see you again I'll just grin
Cos' I'm glad that you had, better sense than to mess up my life.You haven't changed and I know that you won't
You stare at my back, then pretend that you don't
You were too cute and correct to be mine
Now I'm kinda glad that we didn't find timeSo when, I, see you again I'll just grin
And you know why it is, cos' I'm glad that you're his and not mineI'm in the mood to reveal how I feel
You weren't that sharp, but you had some appeal
Now there's a hint of regret in your eyes
But you won't tell me, and your smile's your disguiseSo when, I, see you again I'll just grin
Cos' I'm happy I'm here, and that you're way the heck over there!
