

Bella's Birthday Cake

Five for Fighting

Bella played the bridge, every second loneliest night of the year
And took a certain liking to a fellow there, Bella
She said, I brought her back to some old better man, fellah
See Bella, she was born today feeling kinda spry Bella's birthday cake was burning, yeah
Like lightning or like fire
Bella's birthday cake was burning Bella made her bed in red, every loneliest night of the year
And tied me to the rages of her rocking chair, Bella
Fed me quiet offer through her ever wares, I'll tell ya
But Bella, she was born today, feeling kinda spry Bella's birthday cake was burning, yeah
Like lightning or like fire
Bella's birthday cake was burning
Ever yearning forest fire And all of her lines, she left unread
"Spirits and battles won", she said
And over her mountain tops, she ground off
Where I can't remember, no Bella played the bridge on the second loneliest night of the year
Bella she was born today
Bella, Bella, Bella, Bella Bella's birthday cake was burning
Bella's birthday cake was burning
Bella's birthday cake was burning
Bella's birthday cake was burning
Bella's birthday cake was burning, 50 years
Bella's birthday cake was burning, burning, burning
Bella, Bella
