

Borrowed Time

Seasons Lost

A soldier lost without a fight not knowing what is wrong or right
If you looked behind his eyes you would see his soul was half alive
Following a path of no intent, not caring who stayed or what went Walking among wraiths not one saw his face, but he heard an angel singing

We don't even know how far we go can we learn from the mistakes that we create?

An angel with a broken wing inspires all with her hopes and dreams
You will see her smile you know all the while there is a life before death
This angel with a broken wing raises her walls against deceit
Entropy at her feet, could this be her dance of eternity?

One chance, one choice to get it right
One life to live until we die

The soldier now fights for the angel's broken song, as she lowers her walls to see his eyes alive.
Together they walk along two shores that were destined to be together, and they thought they were lost in life forever???

Lyrics submitted by Mark.

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlyrics.com/>