

Mustang

Matt Goss

Like roses can't live forever, when they've been cut by the stem
Wild horses run, through the fields of choices, have you ever seen a Mustang inside a fence
You're free to go, make it on your own
But it does not mean that I don't love you
You're free to live and hopefully we will forgive each other
But it does not mean, it will never mean, that I don't love you
Because I do
In Manhattan these raindrops, hit me before the ground
And those little raindrops, when things get heavy, even they fall from a cloud, from a cloud
You're free to go, make it on your own
But it does not mean that I don't love you
You're free to live and hopefully we will forgive each other
But it does not mean, it will never mean, that I don't love you
Because I do
You're free to go, make it on your own
But it does not mean that I don't love you (oh)
You're free to live and hopefully we will forgive each other
But it does not mean, it will never mean, that I don't love you
