

Flawed

Jamestown Story

Hiding the shame - a distant memory

I'm so wasted, so ugly

Buried beneath all the compromise

I'm so jaded, frustrated

But I'm alive

I'm alive

It's not enough to be yourself to make amends

It's so messed up to be yourself when you're never, never enough

Stealing the blame of your reflection

There's no failure, no envy

I've become all that I despise

I'm so faded, devastated

But I'm still alive

I'm alive

It's not enough to be yourself to make amends

It's so messed up to be yourself when you're not enough

It's not enough to be yourself to make amends

It's so messed up to be yourself when you're never, never enough

You're never enough

How can you save a distant memory?

That's so faded, so wasted

Bury the shame in your reflection

That's so jaded, so wasted

There's nothing to gain

And there's no one to blame.

Just you

I'm so wasted, I'm so ugly

I'm so jaded, I'm frustrated

It's not enough to be yourself to make amends

It's so messed up to be yourself when you're not enough

It's not enough to be yourself to make amends

It's so messed up to be yourself when you're never, never enough

You're never enough

Lyrics powered by lyrics.tancode.com

written by NICK FUELLING, JOSHUA MARUNDE, LEIGH KAKATY, DAVE GRACIA, JOHNNY KARKAZIS, MATTHEW DI RITO

Lyrics Â© BMG PLATINUM SONGS OBO POP EVIL MUSIC, BMG RIGHTS MANAGEMENT US, LLC, BMG GOLD SONGS OBO POP 616 MUSIC

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>