

Jealous Sun

Parker Millsap

Jealous sun, he walks right in
Like the place belongs to him
Steals you from my arms again
He'll be back tomorrow

I have tried to show him you're all mine
I've cast stones, I've begged, I've cried
But all my pleas fall hollow

I can see how heaven could be lonely
Can he find someone who ain't my only
But I've got something he can't take

Long before the morning wakes
The smile your mouth and moonlight makes
Hidden from Apollo
He can't see

The way you breathe in dreams
The way your eye in starlight sings
To make his shine look borrowed

I can see how heaven could be lonely
Can't he find someone who ain't my only
